Eligibility for the Trainee Specialist Division

01st November 2023

Following an amendment to the Medical Practitioners Act 2007 on the 6th November 2020, all doctors who are eligible for registration in the General Division are automatically eligible for registration in the Trainee Specialist division.

A doctor may provide a current or old registration certificate showing registration in the General Division which should be accepted as evidence of eligibility for registration in the Trainee Specialist division.

For doctors who are not yet active on the register, evidence of their eligibility email to the General division which is provided to them after a full assessment has been completed, should also be accepted as evidence of eligibility for the Trainee specialist division.

Please be advised that the Medical Council cannot confirm eligibility to any division of the register until your application has been assessed.

Kind regards

Registration Team.
